

Learning a language must be based in two differentiated sections:

A first section focused in oral communication. That means, listening and speaking. Our classroom is fully equipped with audio-visual and multimedia aids that allow us a wide variety of didactic materials getting the right development of the skills.

The second section is centered in two skills: reading and writing. We work with different texts adapted to the level of the students, their interests and age.

According to the student's needs, we would emphasize in achieving these aims. As a general rule, we would focus on oral communication skills, the most common handicap in communication.
